10:00 am-Noon How 2009 IECC Prevents Building Issues

Maine has had MUBEC in place for more than 6 years. For those municipalities who adopted the Energy Code portion, they should not only be Pros at it, there should be no issues related to the Energy Code, right? This session will take a comprehensive look into the problems that buildings are having meeting or trying to meet the 2009 IECC and what key elements in the design of the building prevent issues with mold, moisture, comfort, rot, ventilation, HVAC sizing and overall performance.

Speaker: Stephen P. Carr, Regional Building Science Manager, TopBuild Home Services

Stephen is the National Building Science Manager for TopBuild Home Services. He started in the building science industry when he managed the Weatherization and Housing Rehabilitation Programs in Maine funded by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) starting in 2000; he moved to the U.S. Department of Houses and Urban Development (HUD) funded programs, started the first Home Performance and HERS Rating Company in Maine 2005, and conducted certification trainings for BPI, RESNET, and utility programs certifications throughout the United States for Conservation Services Group (Now, CLEARresult).
